Capacity. It is society that fashions each one of us into what we find ourselves to be. But it is not society alone that is behind who we are; our peculiar biology, including aspects of genetic makeup and psychological disposition, also comes into the picture. But society and our biological make up are not perfect, and can never fashion a perfect nature. And herein lies the roots of the imperfections and woes that afflict human societies. Wherefore in the circumstances, is the respite for humanity? This novel dwells on this subtle subject and advances the view that we, as individuals, must re-invent our nature. We should be fashioned after the divine nature and not by society, or be held captives of our biological nature. For indeed, it is not the circumstances of man that need to be salvaged; it is the soul of man that needs salvation. In this story set in a fictitious society - Guajava - the author uses an environmental crisis raised by a genius but unconventional Professor of environmental psychology to bring out the limitations of human nature. Key personalities in Guajava respond to the crisis in radically divergent ways underpinned by their peculiar personality types, ultimately ruining their country. In the events that rapidly unfold, leaving in their fast trail a wave of fire, rubble, dust and ash, the author uses suspense to maximum effect. In a departure from the traditional literary style of African writers, the author has employed a dramatic fast-paced and action-packed style that grips the reader from beginning to the end.

Sigmund Freud, the father of psychoanalysis, was among the first people in the world to talk about human personality and the way our mind is structured. He was the one to introduce the three important structures: conscious, subconscious and unconscious mind. Today, we have come a long way from those times and we definitely know a lot more information on how the mind functions and the way these three structures are interconnected. In this book, you will find exciting information on how the mind and the subconscious are related. Moreover, you will be able to find out about the power of the conscious mind and the important role the unconscious plays in the whole picture. The fantastic read introduces you into the world of thoughts, presents visualization as a unique technique to
